[Correspondence of the Whig and Courier.] Pittssung, July 10, 1838.

On the morning of the 4th mst. I left Philadelphia, in company with Mr. W. of Bangor for this place. The evening before setting out, we had seemed tickets through by the way of the Philadelphia and Columbia Pail Road and the Pennsylvania Canal, for ten dollars, exclusive of board, with the understanding that we should be landed in Pistaburg in three and a half days, But instead of three and a half days, we were hve in performing the journey so much do they practice descrition upon the traveller. Indeed, we found it utterly impossible to arrive at any thing like truth concerning the different lines of arre and boats on this route. The farther we extended our inquiries, the more perplexed and confused were our minds on the subject so that at last, we were compelled to decide without the. adequate knowledge, and trust the result to our seed forme. Our choice was the Washington er opposition line a choice which, in the end proved rather unfortunate, the boats not being at all cleanly, nor the fare good. Should any of my friends from Bangor or that neighborhood have occasion to cross the Alleghany mountains he the Sinte of Pennsylvania, I should advise them decidedly to take Leech's Express Line, as I think the boats of his line are much better, and more cleanly, with better fare than the they may avoid the disappointment and delay which we were doesned to suffer.

From Philadelphia to Pittsburg, by the route we traveled, the distance is 386 miles, namely, 82 miles from Philadelphia to Columbia by rail read, thence to Hollidaysburg by canal, 163, thence to Johnstown over the mountains by rail road 38, and thence to Pittsburg by canal 103

Between Huntingdon and Hollidaysburg a distance by canal of 30 niles is the great break which was made tile 19th of June last by a most audden and unexpected freshet. The Canal having been thus rendered useless, the distance between the two places above gamed is now traveled in coaches, so that, in passing along, we had an opportunity of viewing the scene of this terrific inundation. The loss of property to the Canal alone has been estimated at half a million. Besides this, a large amount of private property has been destroyed, and more than all, several persons, and among them, a highly esteemed woman and two interesting children. These were drowned in attempting to escape from their hour which already had several feet. of water in it. The whole scene of this awful destruction is indeed most gloomy to look upon, houses with all their contents, stores but newly filled, bridge and expensive viaducts and acquiwhich surround Hollidaysburg, like the frightful waves of the ocean in a storm, as an eye-witness described them to me, carrying every thing before them; and long will it be before this little place, beautifully seated as it is among the lofty Alleghanies, with regain its late flourishing state. A large number of men are now at work. and it is probable that in three months at most.

the whole line will be again filled with water. Over the mountains, between the two termini of the canal a distance of 38 miles, there are nine inclined planes, five on the cast and four on the west of the Alleghanies. By the five on the east; we were elevated thirteen hundred and sixty-fire feet, and the whole distance, including the river plains, was performed in about five hours, which, considering the height we attained, and trois which we were safely let down again, f allow to be tolerable good travelling. It is truly a onderful to see, what difficulties manhas suites sunted in carrying forward his phins. On this read, you will are the ears at one time residly winding their devices way through some depravine which the direct rays of the sunhardly ever penetrates, and at another flying sleng the very summit of the highest mountain, with the speed of lightning, leaving almost the ndventuroya sagla behind.

Many accidente have happened in ascending and delighding these inclined planes, but recontly there has been mank ty car, but is called, not entirely do away, the danger formerly attending this part of the route. Though I saw happened, I entertained no hars of my safety, so great he the improvement been of late in this mode of travelling.

The above is part of a paragraph which is gong the rounds of the locofoco press. It first made its appearance in that sink of locofocoism the Oxford Democrat. We believe it to be a BASE FORGERY. "We don't believe the Advertiser ever admitted any such thing. John Fairfield a #democrat"! ridiculous! He is a bold aristocrat a leveler of the rights of the people opposed to their interests and has done every thing in Congress, heart and hand with the Nullifiers of the South, to deprive the people of the North even of the right of petition! the right of being heard in self defence! He a democrat? He may be according to the modern acceptation of the term but not as Jefferson, Madison and Washington Line. Let them recollect this, and Monroe understood the word. There are reasons enough why the people should not vote for John Fairfield, but his Locofocoism alone is enough to "Damn him to everlasting fame."

MR. BUCHANANS REPORT. (Concluded)

Particular emphasis has been placed by the British Government on the word "highlands," mentioned in the treaty; and comparisons linese been made between the height of Mars hill and that of different parts of the highlands which divide the streams of the St. Lawrence from those of the Atlantic. Even in this they have failed: because it has been shown that the summits of the more elevated partions of the treaty highlands are considerably above that of Mars hill, the highest point on the ridge claimed by Great Britain. The committee, however, deeinsuch a guestion to be wholly immaterial. ducis all swept away without one moment's When highlands are spoken of as dividing wa warning. The floods came down the mountains, | ters flowing in different directions, the meaning is plain. From the very nature of things they must exist and slope off in opposite directions; but whether they consist of table land, of mountains, or even of swamp, still if there he a height of land, from which streams flow down in different directions, this is sufficient, It is not their elevation, but their capacity to divide, which gives them their character

It is strange that the mere incidental mention of the Bay of Fundy in the treaty, though not at all in connexion with the St. John, which is net even named, should have been the foundstion of the whole superstructure of the British argument. The reason why it was mentioned at all is obvious. It was palpably not for the made, as early as practicable. purpose of creating a third-class of rivers flowing into that bay, distinct from those flowing into the St. Lawrence and the Atlantic, as the Bistish Government contend; but merely for the purpose of specifying with greater precision the commencement of the eastern boundary of the United States. Several rivers in that portion of the country had borne the name of St. Croix; from the fact that the early French navigators, actuated by motives of piety, had planted a cross at their mouth when they were first discovered. Hence it was necessary, in specifying the beginning of our eastern boundary, to state that it was in the middle of that St. Croix which had its mouth in the Bay of Fundy. Notwithstanding this description, it has been seen, that which was the true St. Croix, because a subject of dispute between the two Governments. Still both parties were prevented from claiming that any river which did not flow into that bey was the St. Croix of the treaty.

The Pay of Fundy has been twice mentioned in the treaty. After starting at the north-west angle of Nova Scotia, and whom whence sweepintroduced, which very much lessens, if it sees ing round the boundaries of the United States to this bay, it was necessary to fix as precisely as possible the point at which our eastern boundary commenced. This was essential for a broken ears stre-m slong the whole way, and double purpose. In the first place it was the exheard many tales of the sed accidents that had treme northern point from which a line .. a. to be run due wast twenty leagues into the ocean, according to the treaty; within which space the United States were entitled to all the islands along their coust, except such as were within the it was the point 4-pm which our eastern line was to commence, and to run to the northwest

Upon the Whole, the committee do not entertain a doubt of the title of the United States to the whole of the disputed territory. They go further, and state that if the General Government be not both able and willing to protect the territory of each State inviolate, then it will have proved itself incapable of performing one of he first and highest duties. They feel as abiding reliance, however, in the inherent senne of justice of the British Government. As soon as that Government shall become convinced that States, which they persuade them lives will be the case ating distant day, impelled by a desire of preserving inviolate the faith of treaties; it will hasten to relinquish its pretensions. In that event, the committee entertain not a doubt but that this long contested and dangerous question may be settled to the mutual satisfaction tof both Governments

The Committee will now proceed to make a very few observations on the second question proposed for discussion, which was, does no othr and more friendly expedient remain untried of bringing this long pending controversy to a conclusion, than the passage of the bill which lias been referred to them by the Senate? They are most happy to be able to mawer this question in the affirmative: "Anxious as they are to cultivate, by every honorable means in their power, the most friendly relations with Great Britain, it affords them sincere pleasure, that the exsting state of the negotiations between the two countries will justify them in forbearing to recommend the adoption of any measure on the subject by the Senate at its present session Negotiation has not yet been exhausted. Although the committee are firmly convinced that the title of the United States to the territory in dispute is clear and unquestionable; although they acknowledge that the State of Maine has ust reason to complain not only of the long and rexatious delay which has been experienced in settling this question, but of the assumption of actual jurisdiction by Great Britain over a portion of her territory, under sireumstances we calculated, in some instances at least, to excite her sensibility, yet from the known justice of that power, they still entertain a confident hope ; hat the pending negotiation may be productive of the most happy results. The important preliminaries of a convention between the two Governments, for the purpose of exploring and surveying the disputed lines of the treaty boundary have already been adjusted. In this state of the question, it seems to them not advisable to withdraw the subject from the Executive, to which it more properly belongs, and direct the houndaries to be surveyed, the lines to be mark edeand monuments to be erected thereon, under the authority of Congress. In their opinion, therefore, the bill referred to them, provide for surveying the northeastern boundary line of the United States, according to the provisions of the treaty of peace of seventeen hundred and eighty three," ought not to pass. Entertaining this view of the whole subject. the committee unanimously recommend to the Senate the adoption of the following resolu-

Resolved, That after a careful examination, and deliberate consideration of the whole controversy between the United States and Great Britain, relative to the northeastern boundary of the former, the Senate does not entertain a loubt of the entire practicability of running and with the stipulations of the definitive treaty of peace of seventeen hundred and eighty-three; and it entertains a perfect conviction of the justicitizens was to be held on Saturday to adopt tice and validity of the title of the United States measures for the relief of the sufferers. to the full extent of all the territory in dispute

Resolved, That as it would be inexpedient for the United States to proceed, upon their separate authority, to survey and mark the northeastern boundary, until all reasonable means of effecting that object by the consent and concurrence of both parties shall have been exhausted, the "bill to provide for surveying the northeastern boundary line of the United States, according to the provisions of the treaty of peace of eventeen hundred and eightythree, "might not to pass, and it is, therefore, ordered that it be laid upon the table. Much debate was had on this question, from to introduction into the Senate, until the final passage of the above resolutions. Many of the Senators, who had never before examined the subject, expressed their clear conviction of the right of Maine to the whole of the territory, and their surprise that Great Britain should arge a claim so unfounded with so much pertinacity. The able report of Mr. Buchanan, and the clear and convincing statement of Mr. Webster, must satisfy the country that "Maine is right," and will again place us on the liigh ground occupied in the days of the lamented sincoln, the lose the constally, meaking and traitorous Legislature of 1832 OFFERED TO SELL OUT. He threatened France with a war for not paying our merchants a debt due to them. Rational honor is more at stake in the boundary question than in the Franch Deof Fundy and the Atlantic ocean; excepting demnity due the merchants. When the French refused to pay the money we might have charged them with dishonesty and a want of good faith and paid the debt ourselves, but we can never submit that a sovereign State shall be dismembered or even an inch of our soil yielded to the grasping ambition of England without everlanting infamy and diagrace. HIGHWAY ROBBERY. The Portland Advertiser states that Daniel Young, Jr. a Deputy Sheriff from Oxford county, while passing over Tukey's bridge- on Monday evening, was attanked by two men, and tobbed of his wallet containing near $600. He received a blow on the right side of his head which rendered him senseless, and on his recovery found himself in the water, where he supposes the robbers, after rifling his pockets, had thrown him.

If The Globe states that Mr. White, the Representative elect from Louisiana, "received a majority of 2194 votes over Dawson in 1834 and that now his majority is claimed to be only 1200 !! but studiously omits to state the fact, that there were two Whig candidates supported which reduced White's majority. The Globe's object an making this statement is to make the people believe that there has been a reduction in the Whig majority since the last election; and it does not hesitate to suppress half the facts in order to accomplish its purpose! What baseness! Its echo, the Argus, as in duty bound, copies the article.

They will have none left in this city but the office-holders and their dependants, the steelhearted miscre, the sons of luxury and idleness, and a small host of loafers, loungers and rowdies.
